

Adam Grennan
Systems Engineering Director, UK & Ireland,
Cisco

Adam Grennan was appointed Systems Engineering Director for Cisco UK & Ireland in March 2017. He is a Director of Cisco Systems Interworking (Ireland) Ltd and a member of the Cisco UK and Ireland Operations Board. Adam is also a Non-Executive Director on two, not-for-profit boards: the Board of the Commissioners of Irish Lights (CIL) and the Board of Fast Track to Information Technology (FIT) Ltd.

From 2012 to 2017 Adam was employed as Country Manager for Cisco in Ireland. Prior to this role he was the Head of Technical Strategy for Cisco in Ireland where he led a team of engineers and architects whose key objective was to work with customers and partners and articulate how Cisco's architectures and solutions can be applied to drive business transformation.

2017 marks Adam's 35th year in the IT and Communications industry. During that time he has worked for some of the world's largest communications companies including Siemens Nixdorf, Cable and Wireless, Global One and Avaya before joining Cisco in 2005. On leaving school he trained as a Radio Officer for the Merchant Navy.

With his wealth of experience in communications technologies, Adam is a consistent voice on topics such as Education and Skills, Digital Transformation, Security and Collaboration.

Adam holds an MSc in Enterprise Network Management from Sheffield Hallam University and is a member of the Institute of Directors in the UK. He is married with four children and living in Dublin.
